Winter concert season in full swing with Winter Lullabies

Set the mood for a tranquil holiday season by joining the Adelphian Concert Choir and Voci d’Amici in their performance of the Winter Lullabies holiday concert.

The choral groups’ annual winter celebration takes a different turn this year, with a focus on music that evokes images of the quiet and spiritual times of life, as experienced by cultures in England, France, the United States, Israel, and Mexico. The Adelphi ans and Voci d’Amici singers will be conducted by Director of Choral Activities Steven Zopfi, and Chaplain David Wright ’96 will provide readings.

Winter Lullabies will take place in Kilworth Memorial Chapel, on Saturday, Dec. 6, starting at 7:30 p.m., and again on Sunday, Dec. 7, at 2 p.m. Everyone is welcome.

The music, coming from many traditions and cultures, will include familiar carols and compositions by celebrated American composer and conductor Leonard Bernstein, French composer and pianist Francis Poulenc, American choral composer William Billings, and contemporary English sacred music choral composer Philip Stopford, among others.

Tickets are available online at tickets.pugetsound.edu, or at Wheelock Information Center, 253.879.3100. Admission is $10 for the general public; $5 for seniors (65+), students, military, and Puget Sound faculty, staff, and students. Any remaining tickets will be available at the door.
A Festival of Scenes offers three nights of theater

DEC. 8, 9, AND 10, 7:30 P.M., NORTON CLAPP THEATRE

The culmination of the fall directing class coursework, A Festival of Scenes is a student-produced festival of one-act plays and scenes directed by students in the theatre arts major.

Performances run Dec. 8–10, and are different each night. The curtain rises at 7:30 p.m., in Norton Clapp Theatre, Jones Hall. Admission is $2 per night, at the door.

Campus hosts wilderness first responder course

JAN. 10–18, VARIOUS LOCATIONS

Join Puget Sound Outdoors and Wilderness Medicine Training Center for the “Woofer” first responder course in January. First responder courses are designed to meet the needs of wilderness guides, expedition leaders, and outdoor instructors—and it’s the course you want to take before taking your family or friends hiking or camping. The course includes certification in adult and child CPR and AED.

The “Woofer” course runs Jan. 10–18, 2015. Course times will vary, depending on the day’s activities, but generally run from 8 a.m. to lunchtime, followed by a combination of interactive scenarios, classes, and skills sessions in the afternoon. Cost of the course is $625.

To register or for more information, including a course syllabus and equipment list, visit pugetsound.edu/wfr, or contact Justin Canny at the Expeditionary at 253.879.3510.

Jacobsen Series continues with percussion showcase

JAN. 23, 7:30 P.M., SCHNEEBECK CONCERT HALL

The Jacobsen Series continues Friday, Jan. 23, 2015, with a performance featuring the works of guest composer Neil Thornock.

Thornock and percussionist Matthew Coley will be on campus for a three-day residency that will include the performance, Music for Carillon, Percussion, and Hammered Dulcimer, at 7:30 p.m., in Schneebeck Concert Hall.

Admission is $15 general; $10 senior citizen, student, Puget Sound faculty/staff. Tickets are available at Wheelock Information Center, 253.879.3100, tickets.pugetsound.edu, and at the door.

Student artwork on display at Kittredge Gallery

The Art Students Annual is a longstanding tradition for Kittredge Gallery and the Puget Sound art and art history department, celebrating student artwork. Any student currently enrolled at Puget Sound who has taken a studio class, either on campus or in a study abroad program, is eligible to enter the juried show, and artworks submitted for the exhibition were created as part of class assignments or independent studies supervised by faculty members. This year’s show presents an intriguing range of creative approaches in a variety of media.

The juror for this year’s exhibition is Timea Tihanyi, a Hungarian-born visual artist living and working in Seattle. Tihanyi has been a faculty member of the Interdisciplinary Visual Arts Program at University of Washington since 2004.

2014 Art Students Annual runs through Saturday, Dec. 13, and is free and open to the public. Gallery hours are Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday, noon to 5 p.m. An awards reception for the exhibition will be held on Wednesday, Dec. 3, from 5 to 7 p.m., in Kittredge Gallery.

Library exhibit features hands-on demonstrations exploring electricity

Sparking Imaginations: The History and Technology of Electricity and Electric Power, the current exhibit on view in Collins Memorial Library, investigates the study of electricity from the 18th to the 21st centuries, and considers today’s electrical generation and conservation efforts.

Visitors to the exhibit are able to create a “human battery” by touching two metal plates and creating a current that is recorded by a galvanometer. Also on view is a hand-crank generator that manually rotates a coil of wire between the poles of a magnet, turning on a light bulb. Visitors can learn about pioneers in the field of electricity—Benjamin Franklin, Jean-Antoine Nollet, Hans Christian Orsted, Michael Faraday, Thomas Edison, and others—as well as the social, cultural, and intellectual challenges these scientists faced. The exhibit also includes early photographs and information about the growth of Tacoma Public Utilities.

Sparking Imaginations is a collaboration of Tacoma Public Utilities and Puget Sound’s Office of the President, Collins Memorial Library, Department of Physics, and Science, Technology, and Society Program. Special thanks also go to the many participating students, faculty, and staff.

The exhibit is on display in Collins Memorial Library through Thursday, Jan. 15, 2015. Regular library hours are Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m.–9 p.m. After 9 p.m. access is restricted to current Puget Sound students, faculty, and staff. Hours are reduced during breaks and holidays. Call 253.879.3257 for a recorded library-hours message, updated regularly.

Register for community music spring programs

Puget Sound’s Community Music Department is pleased to offer two exciting programs for children this spring.

Kindermusik is an introduction to music for young children, ages 18 months to 7 years. The curriculum of each program is designed to engage young learners in a sequential building of skills while participating with others in an enjoyable musical class setting. Classes meet on Saturday mornings Jan. 24–May 9, 2015. Cost varies: $195–$225. Registration deadline: Jan. 12, 2015.

Musical Theater Classes run February through June, with instructors Elizabeth Gettel and Stacey Johnson. Girls and boys welcome! These workshop-style classes conclude with a student performance featuring selected scenes and songs.

For ages 7–10 (selections from Mary Poppins), class meets Thursdays, 4–5 p.m. Cost: $300. For ages 11–16 (selections from My Fair Lady), class meets Thursdays, 5–6:30 p.m. Cost: $350.

The Community Music Department also offers private lessons for vocal and instrumental music. For more information or to register for spring programs, please contact the Community Music Department at 253.879.3575 or visit pugetsound.edu/communitymusic.

Peter and the Wolf kicks off Mini Maestros series

JAN. 25, 2:30 P.M., RIALTO THEATER

“Mini Maestros” is an informal concert series featuring Tacoma Symphony. The series offers musical experiences specially created for children ages 2–8 and their grown-ups. Prokofiev's Peter and the Wolf opens the series on Sunday, Jan. 25, 2015, at 2:30 p.m., at the Rialto Theater.

The series continues on campus throughout the spring with three programs for smaller ensembles in Schneebeck Concert Hall (all concerts at 2:30 p.m.): Once Upon a String, Feb. 15; 3-2-1 Brass Off!, March 15; and Percussion on Parade, April 19.

The 45-minute performances provide audience members with interactive, close encounters with musicians and feature elements to engage children both physically and mentally. An instrument “petting zoo” opens one hour before each concert.

Visit tacomasymphony.org and click on the “Family” tab for concert details and tickets.
