Faculty Scholarship at University of Puget Sound
July 2010–June 2012

Puget Sound faculty members are teacher-scholars. This publication is a glimpse into the continuing engagement with the life of the mind that faculty members model for students, in and beyond the classroom. Any such publication is but a snapshot—this compilation is of voluntarily submitted work completed in the 2010–2012 academic years—but I hope this one is useful for several audiences.

For students, I hope that you will have an opportunity to see the kinds of academic work that engage faculty members when we are not involved directly in teaching or advising interactions with you. Perhaps you will recognize work listed here because it has found its way into the classroom, as some faculty scholarship does. Perhaps you will find other work listed that sounds interesting, but is beyond the scope of your classroom experience. I encourage you to talk with professors about their scholarship!

For faculty colleagues, I hope that this compilation will prompt conversations about new teaching collaborations, interdisciplinary projects, further scholarship, and other dimensions of the intellectual life of the campus. Congratulations on the ways that—through research, writing, creating, exhibiting, performing, and engaging civic scholarship—you are, each in your own way, contributing to the advancement of human knowledge and understanding. I encourage you to read and engage one another’s work and to enjoy the collegial interactions that will follow.

For other colleagues and the broader community, I hope that this publication illustrates the vitality of academic conversation at Puget Sound. There is, of course, much additional intellectual work not listed in detail: the 140 stipended research students in the sciences, arts, humanities, and social sciences who have been mentored by faculty members over the past two summers; the 189 students who have been guided in their funded independent projects during the academic years; the on-campus talks; the many dimensions of Puget Sound’s distinctive Race and Pedagogy Initiative and Sound Policy Institute; the professional service that faculty members provide to regional, national, and international academic organizations; the lecturerships, guest artist residencies, and workshops organized and hosted for the campus; and the awards earned for academic achievement, innovation, professional affiliations, and community service. Your interest in Puget Sound and your support—from assistance provided by a departmental staff member to endowment contributed for faculty development—make the intellectual work of the faculty and the fulfillment of our mission as a liberal arts college possible.

Academic Vice President and Dean of the University
ABOUT PUGET SOUND

University of Puget Sound is an independent, predominantly residential, undergraduate liberal arts college with selected graduate programs building effectively on a liberal arts foundation. The university, as a community of learning, maintains a strong commitment to teaching excellence, scholarly engagement, and fruitful student-faculty interaction.

The mission of the university is to develop in its students capacities for critical analysis, aesthetic appreciation, sound judgment, and apt expression that will sustain a lifetime of intellectual curiosity, active inquiry, and reasoned independence. A Puget Sound education, both academic and cocurricular, encourages a rich knowledge of self and others; an appreciation of commonality and difference; the full, open, and civil discussion of ideas; thoughtful moral discourse; and the integration of learning, preparing the university’s graduates to meet the highest tests of democratic citizenship. Such an education seeks to liberate each person’s fullest intellectual and human potential to assist in the unfolding of creative and useful lives.

CIVIC SCHOLARSHIP AT UNIVERSITY OF PUGET SOUND

University of Puget Sound is committed to its role as an intellectual asset within the community, serving as a center for faculty and student research and scholarship on a broad array of issues. In partnership with community members and organizations throughout the region, numerous projects and programs have taken shape, including three signature initiatives:

Civic Scholarship Initiative
www.pugetsound.edu/csi
The Civic Scholarship Initiative connects Puget Sound’s faculty and students with citizens of the south Puget Sound region in projects of mutual concern. By investing the college’s intellectual capital, the initiative provides real-world laboratories for faculty and students to pursue their research and teaching objectives while partnering with regional organizations to solve problems, develop policy, and educate the public on issues of regional and national significance. Current programs include the Pierce County Economic Index; Puget Sound Brass Camp; The Road Home: Homeless Policy for Pierce County; Senior University; and Zina Linnik Project.

Race and Pedagogy Initiative
www.pugetsound.edu/raceandpedagogy
A collaboration between Puget Sound and the South Sound community, the Race and Pedagogy Initiative seeks to educate students and teachers at all levels to think critically about race and to act to eliminate racism. Since 2006 the initiative has served as an incubator, catalyst, and forum for a variety of programs and projects. Most recently the initiative hosted the 2010 Race and Pedagogy National Conference, welcoming to campus more than 1,000 presenters and participants from colleges and universities across the nation, regional schools and community organizations, and the campus community for three days of plenary sessions, panel discussions, artistic and theatrical performances, and more under the theme “Teaching and Learning for Justice: Danger and Opportunity in Our Critical Moment.”

Sound Policy Institute
www.pugetsound.edu/soundpolicy
Sound policies restore and sustain the natural environment in balance with a healthy, prosperous, and just community. The Sound Policy Institute builds the capacity of individuals and groups, both on campus and in the Puget Sound region, to actively and effectively engage in environmental decision-making. The institute provides opportunities for the inclusion of community-based learning objectives in the coursework and research of the college’s Environmental Policy and Decision Making Program; the integration of “big ideas” related to sustainability into the teaching and learning of faculty members from across academic disciplines and higher education institutions; and community member engagement in lifelong environmental learning experiences through courses, field trips, training sessions, and other events.
WASHINGTON PROFESSOR OF THE YEAR

The only national initiative specifically designed to recognize excellence in undergraduate teaching and mentoring, the Professor of the Year program is administered by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education. Puget Sound faculty members have been honored five times, more than any other college in Washington. Recent recipients include

Michael Veseth ’72 (2010)
Robert G. Anderson Professor, International Political Economy

Professor Veseth, co-founder of the first undergraduate program in international political economy, has written, edited, and co-authored more than a dozen books including Mountains of Debt, Globaloney, Globaloney 2.0: The Crash of 2008 and the Future of Globalization; and Wine Wars. A Puget Sound professor since 1975, he’s held visiting posts with the American Institute on Political and Economic Systems in Prague, and Johns Hopkins University’s The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies in Bologna, Italy. He is a graduate of Lincoln High School in Tacoma, Wash., and earned undergraduate and graduate degrees from University of Puget Sound and Purdue University.

PRESIDENT’S EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING AWARD

The Puget Sound President’s Excellence in Teaching Award was established by former trustee Hal Eastman ’60 and his wife, Jacque ’61, to recognize faculty members who demonstrate exceptional teaching skills, independent of accomplishments in scholarship, research, or publication. Recipients are selected for their genuine passion for teaching, an ability to inspire students to learn, a capacity to set high expectations and challenge students to meet them, a respect for students as individuals, an enduring intellectual curiosity, and the capacity for growth, change, and vitality in the classroom and beyond.

Bill Breitenbach (2011)
Professor, History

Professor Breitenbach teaches U.S. history from the colonial period through the Civil War, including courses on early American autobiography, the Revolution, Transcendentalism, Lincoln, and intellectual history to 1865. He writes about his teaching: ”My goal as a teacher continues to be to offer the kinds of courses that I myself would have wanted to take as an undergraduate. These were courses in which the professor was intense and challenging, courses that required me and inspired me to work harder and learn more than I would have done if left to my own devices.” Professor Breitenbach received his B.A. from Harvard University in 1971, before earning his M.Phil. and Ph.D. from Yale in 1975 and 1978, respectively.

Nick Kontogeorgopoulos (2010)
Professor and Director, International Political Economy

Professor Kontogeorgopoulos is known for his passion, enthusiasm, respect for students, and concern for student understanding. In addition to international political economy, he also teaches courses in comparative sociology and Asian languages and cultures. His research interests include tourism geography, ecotourism, and community-based development, and he is currently investigating the role of tourism in elephant conservation in northern Thailand. Professor Kontogeorgopoulos earned a B.A. from University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill in 1992, an M.A. from University of Toronto in 1994, and a Ph.D. from University of British Columbia in 1998.

EDITOR’S NOTE
This publication presents highlights of faculty scholarship for the period July 1, 2010–June 30, 2012. Submissions were edited for length and consistency of style wherever possible. A copy of this publication can be found online at www.pugetsound.edu/academics.

DIVERSITY STATEMENT
We acknowledge the richness of commonalities and differences we share as a university community, the intrinsic worth of all who work and study here, and that education is enhanced by investigation of and reflection upon multiple perspectives. We aspire to create respect for and appreciation of all persons as a key characteristic of our campus community, to increase the diversity of all parts of our university community through commitment to diversity in our recruitment and retention efforts, and to foster a spirit of openness to active engagement among all members of our campus community. We act to achieve an environment that welcomes and supports diversity, to ensure full educational opportunity for all who teach and learn here, and to prepare effectively citizen-leaders for a pluralistic world.

EQUAL OPPORTUNITY POLICY
University of Puget Sound does not discriminate in education or employment on the basis of sex, race, color, national origin, religion, creed, age, disability, marital or familial status, sexual orientation, veteran or military status, gender identity, or any other basis prohibited by local, state, or federal laws. This policy complies with the spirit and the letter of applicable federal, state, and local laws, including Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Sections 503 and 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. Questions about the policy may be referred to the university’s affirmative action officer (253.879.3991) or the Office of Civil Rights, Department of Education, Washington, D.C., 20202. Information on services for persons with disabilities may be obtained from Peggy Perno, director of disability services (253.879.3395; TTD: 253.879.3399; pperno@pugetsound.edu).
