PERFORMER

JOHN LAMPUS ’15, baritone, is a vocal performance major and studies with Dawn Padula. John played the Gouveneur in the 2015 Opera Theater Production of Rossini’s Le Comte Ory, the Police Sergeant in the 2012 production of The Pirates of Penzance (Gilbert and Sullivan), as well as Papageno in a scene from Die Zauberflöte (Mozart), Baron Zeta in a scene from The Merry Widow (Lehar), and Snug/Lion in scenes from A Midsummer Night’s Dream (Britten) in the 2014 Opera Scenes production. He serves as the bass section leader for the Adelphian Concert Choir, sings in Voci d’Amici, and assists Dr. Edmund Hughes in Chorale. John is the founder and president of Timbermen A Cappella Quartet, president of the university’s Collegiate Washington Music Educators Association Chapter, and a member of the Music Student Advisory Committee. He has twice served proudly as the music chair of the Washington Gamma Chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. John will be staying on campus for fall semester to complete requirements in music education and plans to pursue a masters in choral conducting degree in fall 2016.

GUEST PERFORMERS

BRONWYN HAGERTY ’15, student of David Requiro and Meta Weiss, is majoring in cello performance.

CLARA FUHRMAN ’16, student of Maria Sampen, is majoring in violin performance.

ACCOMPANIST

DENES VAN PARYS, accompanist, collaborative artist, conductor, and composer, has led performances for numerous international opera companies, theaters, orchestras, and national tours. He received his Bachelor of Music degree in music theory and composition from Washington State University, and pursued graduate studies in opera and musical theater conducting at Ithaca College. He currently is the staff accompanist at Puget Sound.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

First, I would like to thank everyone for coming to my senior recital. Thank you to Dr. Padula for your constant guidance and unwavering encouragement in helping me grow into the performer I am today; to Dr. Zopfi for being an invaluable choral inspiration before I even came to Puget Sound; to Denes Van Parys for being a passionate teacher and friend; and to Debbie Sanders, Jacob Herbert, and Dr. Tuomi, for helping me grow my musical passion during my high school years. Thank you to Alexander, Adrian, Charlie, Brandon, Tim, Michael, Shannon, Christy, Stephani, Jordan, Aubrey, Meredith, Will, Ryan, Nick, Bartie, and Parker for being my best friends. Thank you to SAE for allowing me to thrive among a group of men never content with mediocrity, and to my big fat Greek family for their loving support.
PROGRAM NOTES

Johann Sebastian Bach (1685–1750) Well known for his enrichment of established German styles through his mastery of counterpoint, harmonic organization, and the adaptation of rhythms and forms, Bach's compositions are beloved for their intellectual depth, technical command, and artistic beauty. Bach's abilities as an organist were well known throughout Europe during his lifetime, although his legendary status did not begin to promulgate until the first half of the 19th century. He is now regarded as one of the mainstay composers of the Baroque period, and one of the greatest composers of all time.

A complete setting of the Latin Mass Ordinary, Bach's Mass in B Minor was completed the year before his death and is comprised primarily of vocal music Bach had completed earlier in his career, albeit extensively revised. It has been continually praised as one of the greatest compositions in musical history. “Et in Spiritum Sanctum” is the seventh movement of the Credo and originally used wind instruments to represent the idea of the Holy Spirit as breath and wind.

“Et in Spiritum Sanctum”

Et in Spiritum Sanctum,
Dominum et vivificantem,
Qui ex Patre Filioque procedit.

Qui cum Patre,
et Filio simul adoratur et conglorificatur,
Qui locutus est per Prophetas.

And in the Holy Spirit,
the Lord and Giver of life,
Who proceeds from the Father and the Son.

Who together with the Father and the Son is adored and glorified,
And who spoke through the prophets.

A childhood prodigy, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (1756–1791) was proficient at both violin and piano from a very early age and began composing at the age of 5. Hired as a court musician in Salzburg, Mozart grew restless and eventually made his home in Vienna, where he composed a majority of his legendary works. Having composed more than 600 works, many of Mozart's pieces are acknowledged as the greatest in their respective genres, establishing his reputation as one of the greatest composers who has ever lived.

Die Zauberflöte is an opera written in two acts by Mozart to a German libretto by Emanuel Schikaneder. In the form of a Singspiel, a work with both singing and spoken dialogue, the opera premiered in 1791 at the Freihaus-Theater auf der Wieden in Vienna. In the last of his arias, Papageno the bird catcher despairs at having lost his beloved “little dove,” Papagena, and contemplates suicide.

“Papagena, Papagena, Papagena!” from Die Zauberflöte

Papagena! Papagena! Papagena!
Weibchen! Täubchen! meine Schöne!

Vergebens! Ach sie ist verloren!
Ich bin zum Unglück schon geboren!
Ich plauderte, - und das war schlecht,
Und drum geschieht es mir schon recht.
Seit ich gekostet diesen Wein,

Papagena! Papagena! Papagena!
Little wife! Hopeful dove! My beautiful one!

In vain! Ah! She is lost!
I was born for misfortune!
I chattered, - and that was bad,
And therefore it serves me right.
Since I tasted this wine,
Seit ich das schöne Weibchen sa,
So brennts im Herzenskämmerlein,
So zwickt es hier, so zwickt eis da.
Papagena! Herzenstäubchen! Papagena!
Papagena! Lebes Täubchen! Papagena!

'S ist umsonst! Es ist vergebens'
Müde bin ich meines Lebens!
Sterben macht der Lieb' ein
Wenns im Herzen noch so brennt.

Papagena! Herzenstäubchen! Papagena!
Papagena! Lebes Täubchen! Papagena!
Papagena! Lebes Täubchen! Papagena!
Papagena! Herzenstäubchen! Papagena!
Papagena! Lebes Täubchen! Papagena!
Papagena! Herzenstäubchen! Papagena!
Papagena! Lebes Täubchen! Papagena!

The inventor of both the violin chinrest and the orchestra rehearsal mark, violinist and composer Louis Spohr (1784–1859) was well regarded during his time as his music marked a critical position between Classicism and Romanticism. While his music fell into obscurity following his death, his works experienced a widespread revival throughout Europe in the late 20th century allowing his symphonies, operas, and chamber pieces to grace modern ears.

Abendfeier describes the singer taking delight in nature and realizes the greatness of God by directly experiencing His uncorrupted creations.

Abendfeier
Leise schleich' ich mich am Abend
In die Laube von Jasmin,
Wenn die lauen Lüfte labend

In the evening I steal softly
in the foliage of the jasmine,
as the warm breezes refreshingly
Durch die grünen Blätter zieh’n.   through the green leaves moves.
Wenn der Mond in Silberhelle   When the moon in silvery brightness
Sich dort spiegelt in der Flut,   is mirrored in the waters,
Plätschernd kräuselt sich die Welle,   the waves ripple and splash,
Und die ganze Schöpfung ruht.   and all of creation rests.

Horch dem Lied der Philomele,   I listen to the nightingales’ song, o wie ist mir da so wohl,   Which is so pleasing to my senses, wie ist dann die ganze Seele   And into my mood falls
mir von hoher Andacht voll!   Some melancholy because I exist!

Und es schweift mein Blick nach oben   And my gaze turns upwards
Zum besternten Himmelszelt;   to the starry firmament;
Meinen Schöpfer muss ich loben,   I will praise my creator,
Groß und schön ist Gottes Welt!   for great and beautiful is his world!

Jagdlied, literally “Hunting Song,” is an energetic, uproarious tune that describes a group of jubilant men thrilled by the idea of hunting their prey and enjoying the beautiful nature surrounding them. The latter idea links this piece with Abendfeier even though Jagdlied employs a much more bombastic and gruff approach.

Jagdlied

Seht ihr’s dort funkeln in rosiger Pracht!   Do you see it sparkle there in ruddy Es glänzet das Frührot so milde;   splendor?
Auf, Brüder! munter! Diana lacht,   The rosy sunrise gently brightens the Schon lebt’s im Hain, im Gefilde.   sky;

Nicht länger gefröstet der schlafreichen Ruh,   In fetters of slumber no longer then lie,
Die Jagd beut schöner Stunden,   The hunt offers more beautiful hours,
Wir eilen dem schattigen Walde zu,   We hurry to the shady woods,
Umklafft von munteren Hunden.   Accompanied by baying hounds.

Schön schmeckt es im Grünen bei fröhlicher Our meal tastes good in the open as we Rast,           take a cheerful rest,
Viel besser als heim der Klause,   Much better than within four walls,
Die schattige Eiche wird unser Palast,   The powerful oaks are our palace,
Und Frohsinn herrschet beim Schmause.   And gladness crowns our carouses.

Uns spendet die Quelle den labenden Trank,   The brooklet will cool us with crystalline
Es rufen die schallenden Hörner,   flood,
Wir winden uns mutig zum buschigen Hang,   The horns call in chorus,
Durch Brombeer, Ranken und Dörner.   We’ll win to our rest through the maze
Dort zeigt sich der Eber, der Hirsch mit   of the wood,
Geweih,
Und lauschet an rieselnder Quelle,
Doch krachend trifft sie das törende Blei,

Stark schweißend blümt sich die Stelle.

Viel Freuden beut uns die herrliche Jagd,
Sie macht uns so rüstig, so munter,
Am Abend ist lustiges Waidwerk vollbracht,
Froh geht's zur Heimat hinunter.

Der Erlkönig

began as a poem by Johann Wolfgang von Goethe that depicts the death of a young boy by a supernatural being, the Elfking. The text has been employed by a multitude of classical composers for Lieder, the most famous of which is Schubert’s energetically terrifying composition for tenor voice and piano. Spohr’s composition is a bit more reserved and timid, putting the sense of terror and horror in the voice rather than the instrumentation.

Der Erlkönig

Wer reitet so spät durch Nacht und Wind?
Es ist der Vater mit seinem Kind;
Er hat den Knaben wohl in dem Arm,
Er faßt ihn sicher, er hält ihn warm.

"Mein Sohn, was birgst du so schon dein Gesicht?"
"Siehst, Vater, du den Erlkönig nicht?"
"Mein Sohn, es ist ein Nebelstreif."

"Du liebes Kind, komm, geh mit mir!"
Gar schöne Spiele spiel’ ich mit dir;
Manch’ bunte Blumen sind an dem Strand,
Meine Mutter hat manch gülden Gewand.

"Mein Vater, mein Vater, und hörest du nicht, Was Erlkönig mir leise verspricht?"
"Sei ruhig, bleibe ruhig, mein Kind; In dürren Blättern säuselt der Wind.

"Willst, feiner Knabe, du mit mir ghn? Meine Töchter sollen dich warten schön; Meine Töchter führen den nächtlichen Reihn, Und wiegen und tanzen und singen dich ein."

"Mein Vater, mein Vater, und siehst du nicht?"

Dort Erlkönigs Töchter am düstern Ort?
"Mein Sohn, mein Sohn, ich seh' es genau:
Es scheinen die alten Weiden so grau."

"Ich liebe dich, mich reizt deine schöne
Gestalt;
Und bist du nicht willig, so brauch' ich Gewalt."

"Mein Vater, mein Vater, jetzt faßt er mich an!
Erlkönig hat mir ein Leids getan!"

Dem Vater grausets, er reitet geschwind,
Erhält in Armen das ächzende Kind,
Reicht den Hof mit Müh' und Not;
In seinen Armen das Kind war tot.

Der Spielmann und seine Geige describes the singer’s torturous descent into madness as he deals with the abandonment of his beloved. While the piece stays in the minor mode almost exclusively, the final section switches to major to reflect that the torture has ended and that the singer has found solace by embracing insanity. Insanity serves the singer’s emergency exit.

Der Spielmann und seine Geige

Vor Gottes Aug', dem Abendrot,
Gab sie mir Ring und Schwur;
Der Ring zersprang, die Treu' ist todt,
Mir blieb die Sehnsucht nur.

Ein Stutzer lockte schmuckt und leicht
Mit süßem Flitterton;
Sie folgte, lächelnd ward gereicht
Mein brechend' Herz zum Lohn.

Durch schwarz' Gewölk die Sonne blinkt!
Freud' steht mit Leid im Bund;
Mein Gram lebt ewig, nimmer sinkt,
Sein Thron am bleichen Mund.

Lös', Geige, der Dämonen Schar,
Es winkt mein Zauberstab,
Sturm, Wahnsinn, dunkles Schlangenhaar,
Sei meiner Leiden Grab!

Doch leise, Äolsharfen gleich,
Besänftigt sie mein Herz;
Ihr Seelenklang, an Balsam reich,
Stills meinen tiefen Schmerz.

Before God’s eye, in the sunset,
Gave she to me ring and vow,
the ring is shattered, the fidelity is dead,
And I am left only with longing,

A dandy lured impudently and lightly
With a sweet, flippant tone;
She followed him and smilingly gave away
My broken heart as a reward.

Through black cloud the sun peers!
Joy stands with sorrow in partnership;
My grief lives eternally, never sinks,
Its throne on the pale mouth.

Set loose, fiddle, the demon hoard,
It flashes my magic bow,
Storm, madness, dark snake-hair,
Be my sorrow’s grave!

But softly, like an Aeolian harp,
it calms my heart,
you soulful sound, a balsam rich,
Stills my deep pain.
Alexis Emmanuel Chabrier (1841–1894) was a French Romantic composer known primarily for his orchestral work who also left behind a stunning repertoire of operas, songs, and piano music. In addition to being associated with some of the nation’s most prestigious writers and painters, a wide range of composers considered some of his best work the beginning of modern French music.

Villanelle des petits canards is an upbeat Chabrier tune that challenges the performer to properly sing the French language in the appropriate legato feel over an incredibly staccato piano accompaniment. Similar to the other two songs in the set, this one describes the narrator’s fascination with tiny ducks and their unwittingly charming nature.

Villanelle des petits canards

Ils vont, les petits canards,
Tout au bord de la rivière,
Comme de bons campagnards!
Barboteurs et frétillards,
Heureux de troubler l’eau claire,
Ils vont, les petits canards.

They go, the little ducks,
All at the riverside,
Like good country folk!
Paddlers and wrigglers,
Happy to trouble the clear water,
They go, the little ducks,

Ils semblent un peu jobards,
Mais ils sont à leur affaire,
Comme de bons campagnards.

They seem a bit silly,
But they are at their business,
Like good country folk!

Dans l’eau pleine de têtards,
Où tremble une herbe légère,
Ils vont, les petits canards.

In the water full of tadpoles,
Where light grass trembles,
They go, the little ducks,

Marchant par groupes épars,
D’une allure régulière
Comme de bons campagnards!

Marching in separate groups,
In a regular pace
Like good country folk!

Dans le beau vert d’épignards
De l’humide cressonnière
Ils vont, les petits canards,

In the pretty spinach green
Of the humid cress-plot,
They go, the little ducks,

Et quoiqu’un peu goguenards,
Ils sont d’humeur débonnaire
Comme de bons campagnards!

And what, then a bit of mocking,
They are in a good-natured mood,
Like good country folk!

Faisant, en cercles bavards,
Un vrai bruit de pétaudière,
Ils vont, les petits canards,

Making, in talkative circles,
A true rucous of noise,
They go, the little ducks,

Dodus, lustrés et gaillards,
Ils sont gais à leur manière,
Comme de bons campagnards!

Plump, glossy and energetic,
They are merry with their manner,
Like good country folk!

Amoureux et nasillards
Chacun avec sa commère

Amorous and nasal,
Each one with its hearsay,
Ils vont, les petits canards,
Comme de bons campagnards!

Les Cigales describes a Disney-like scenario where the narrator finds himself fascinated with the musicality and whimsical charm of small cicadas. The piano accompaniment acts as a stand-in for the cicadas with the dissonant staccato chords representing the insects’ enchanting croons.

Les Cigales
Le soleil est droit sur la sente,
L’ombre bleuit sous les figuiers;
Ces cris au loin multipliés,
C’est midi, c’est midi qui chante.
Sous l’astre qui conduit le chœur,
Les chanteuses dissimulées is a chorus,
Jettent leurs rauques ululées
De quel infatigable cœur.

Les cigales, ces bestioles,
Ont plus d’âme que les violes;
Les cigales, les cigalons,
Chantent mieux que les violons!
S’en donnent-elles, les cigales,
Sur les tas de poussière gris,
Sous les oliviers rabougris
Étoilés de fleurettes pâles.
Et grises de chanter ainsi,
Elles font leur musique folle;
Et toujours leur chanson s’envole
Des touffes du gazon roussi!

Aux rustres épar dans le chaume,
Le grand astre torrentiel,
À larges flots, du haut du ciel,
Verse le sommeil et son baume.
Tout est mort, rien ne bruit
Qu’elles, toujours, les forcenées,
Entre les notes égrenées
De quelque lointain angélus!

Ballade de gros dindons serves as a slight contrast to the other pieces in this set in that the narrator doesn’t consider the turkeys charming or cute but instead finds them somewhat foolish and mocks their shortcomings. The piece virtually does not deviate from the tune established in the first section aside from some various piano echoes and a change of harmony.
Ballade de gros dindons

Les gros dindons, à travers champs,
D’un pas solennel et tranquille,
Par les matins, par les couchants,
Bêtement marchent à la file,
Devant la pastoure qui file,
En fredonnant de vieux fredons,
Vont en procession docile
Les gros dindons!

Ils vous ont l’air de gros marchands,
Remplis d’une morgue imbécile,
De baillis rogues et méchants,
Vous regardant d’un œil hostile;
Leur rouge pendeloque oscille;
Ils semblent, parmi les chardons,
Gravement tenir un concile,
Les gros dindons!

N’ayant jamais trouvé touchants,
Les sons que le rossignol file,
makes, Ils suivent, lourds et trêbuchants,
stumbling,
L’un d’eux, digne comme un édile;
Et, lorsqu’au lointain campanile,
L’angélus fait ses lents din! dons!
dong!” Ils regagnent leur domicile,
Les gros dindons!

Prud’hommes gras, leurs seuls penchants
Sont vers le pratique et l’utile,
Pour eux, l’amour et les doux chants,
Sont un passe-temps trop futile;
Bourgeois de la gent volatile,
Arrondissant de noirs bedons,
Ils se fichent de toute idylle,

Les gros dindons!

They look like wealthy merchants,
Full of foolish arrogance,
or haughty, spiteful magistrates
Regarding you with a hostile eye,
Their red pendants oscillate,
They seem among the thistles,
Gravely to hold council.
The plump turkeys!

Having never been moved,
By the sounds that the nightingale
They follow, heavy and

One of them, dignified like an official;
And when from the distant belfry,
the Angelus makes its slow “ding!”
They return to their home,
The plump turkeys!
Pompous and fat, they are drawn only
Toward the practical and the useful, for them, love and its sweet songs
are a past-time to futile,
bourgeois of the bird world,
Rounded off with plump, black bellies,
They care nothing at all for any love
affair,
The plump turkeys!

Ralph Vaughan Williams (1872–1958) was a prodigious English composer who wrote symphonies, opera, choral music, and even film scores. His music was known for its power and nobility, which subsequently helped define and represent the idea of “Englishness” in music.

Songs of Travel is a song cycle of nine songs composed for baritone voice with texts from the Robert Louis Stevenson poetry collection of the same name. This set represented Vaughan Williams’ first major attempt at songwriting that offers a British take on the typical wayfarer trope commonly seen in song cycles.

Let Beauty Awake features a legato yet burnished vocal line that soars over unending piano arabesques that hint at a French influence.
Let Beauty Awake
Let Beauty awake in the morn from beautiful dreams,
Beauty awake from rest!
Let Beauty awake
For Beauty’s sake
In the hour when the birds awake in the brake
And the stars are bright in the west!

Let Beauty awake in the eve from the slumber of day,
Awake in the crimson eve!
In the day’s dusk end
When the shades ascend,
Let her wake to the kiss of a tender friend,
To render again and receive!

Youth and Love describes the traveler’s pain as he departs from his lover while simultaneously revealing his inner excitement at his future travels, describing waterfalls, late adventures, and starry nights.

Youth and Love
To the heart of youth the world is a highwayside.
Passing for ever, he fares; and on either hand,
Deep in the gardens golden pavilions hide,
Nestle in orchard bloom, and far on the level land
Call him with lighted lamp in the eventide.

Thick as stars at night when the moon is down,
Pleasures assail him. He to his nobler fate
Fares; and but waves a hand as he passes on,
Cries but a wayside word to her at the garden gate,
Sings but a boyish stave and his face is gone.

Whither Must I Wander is a strophic song that grew into one of Vaughn Williams’ most recognizable tunes as the traveler’s almost painful nostalgia is juxtaposed with the cycle of the seasons.

Whither Must I Wander
Home no more home to me, whither must I wander?
Hunger my driver, I go where I must.
Cold blows the winter wind over hill and heather;
Thick drives the rain, and my roof is in the dust.
Loved of wise men was the shade of my roof-tree.
The true word of welcome was spoken in the door--
Dear days of old, with the faces in the firelight,
Kind folks of old, you come again no more.

Home was home then, my dear, full of kindly faces,
Home was home then, my dear, happy for the child.
Fire and the windows bright glittered on the moorland;
Song, tuneful song, built a palace in the wild.
Now, when day dawns on the brow of the moorland,
Lone stands the house, and the chimney-stone is cold.
Lone let is stand, now the friends are all departed,
The kind hearts, the true hearts, that loved the place of old.

Spring shall come, come again, calling up the moor-fowl,
Spring shall bring the sun and rain, bring the bees and flowers;
Red shall the heather bloom over hill and valley,
Soft flow the stream through the even-flowing hours;
Fair the day shine as it shone on my childhood--
Fair shine the day on the house with open door;
Birds come and cry there and twitter in the chimney--
But I go for ever and come again no more.

The ninth and final song of the cycle, I Have Trod the Upward and the Downward Slope, was published separately from the rest of the set when it was found by Vaughn Williams’ wife, Urusla, shortly after his death. The song quotes multiple tunes from previous songs in the set and ends with the set’s opening chords, which many have interpreted as the continuation of the traveler’s never ending journey.

I Have Trod the Upward and the Downward Slope
I have trod the upward and the downward slope;
I have endured and done in days before;
I have longed for all, and bid farewell to hope;
And I have lived and loved, and closed the door.

Widely considered one of the greatest artists in American musical theater, Stephen Sondheim’s career has spanned 50 years. He has crafted gems such as Sunday in the Park with George, Sweeney Todd, Company, Follies, and A Little Night Music.

Being Alive appears at the end of Company’s second act sung by the show’s main character, Robert, as he contemplates taking a chance at falling in love.

Being Alive
Someone to hold you too close
Someone to hurt you too deep
Someone to sit in your chair
And ruin your sleep
And make you aware of being alive
Make me alive, make me confused
Mock me with praise, let me be used
Vary my days, but alone is alone, not alive.
Somebody hold me too close
Somebody force me to care
Somebody make me come through
I’ll always be there
As frightened as you of being alive
Being alive, being alive
Make me alive, make me confused
Mock me with praise, let me be used
Vary my days, but alone is alone,
not alive
Somebody crowd me with love
Somebody force me to care
Somebody let me come through
I'll always be there
As frightened as you to help us survive
Being alive!
