Race and Pedagogy Journal: Teaching and Learning for Justice

Student educational narratives! Reflections from grads of color! Interview with Director! And more! The newest Race & Pedagogy Journal: Teaching and Learning for Justice is available! This volume of the Journal was a project of the AFAM 399 Public Scholarship course lead by Visiting Assistant Professor Dr. LaToya Brackett in collaboration with the Journal's managing editor, Lori Ricigliano.

Read the submissions AND listen to many of the narratives in their own voices. Since established in 2015 and published three times a year, articles from the Journal have been downloaded nearly 6,900 times from across the globe.

African American Studies (AFAM) Graduates Majors

AFAM graduates Majors in African American Studies! In May 2019, five more students joined last year's three inaugural grads with AFAM majors. And it was the nineteenth year of graduates with minors in AFAM. The African American Studies is thriving and growing increasing declared majors and minors.

On May 16, four of this year's AFAM majors, presented their thesis, "Legacies of Racism at the University of Puget Sound: A Historical Analysis of Blackface, Discrimination, Student Activism, and the Black Student Union," to a crowd of 40 people including President Isiaah Crawford, Provost Kris Bartanen, VP Student Affairs Uchenna Baker, alum and Board Trustee Lyle Quasim '70, along with BAU members, students, staff, faculty, and families.

Monthly Bulletin

On behalf of the Black Alumni Union Executive team, this monthly communications piece is to act as a platform to inform you of the happenings on campus regarding current students in our Black Student Union (BSU), African American Studies Program, and The Race and Pedagogy Institute (RPI). It also serves as a space to highlight our very own UPS black alumni. If you have news to share, let us know! Email Regina Glenn, editor, or Haley Harshaw, alumni office.
