Darrell Reeck Award

Jae Bates
Ella Frazer

At the end of the 1990-91 academic year, Darrell Reeck retired from the Department of Religion to take a position with Progressive Securities, a socially responsible investment firm located in Portland, Ore. This move was a logical extension of Professor Reeck’s ongoing personal and professional interest in social ethics throughout his 22 years at the university. He taught in the area of religious ethics, focusing on Christian ethics, Islam, African religions, and the application of religious ethical principles to a variety of social problems. Professor Reeck’s academic interests and ethical convictions led to his work as one of the founders of the university’s Business Leadership Program and his offering of a course on professional and corporate ethics. Further, Professor Reeck played a key role as a faculty member actively involved in the university’s review of its investment policies. This work, in turn, led him to the world of socially responsible investing and eventually to Progressive Securities.

With his deep commitment to social justice and effective teaching in the area of religious ethics, Professor Reeck had a major influence on his students and colleagues throughout his tenure at the university. To commemorate on an annual basis his commitment to social ethics and high-quality teaching while at the university, the Department of Religious Studies has decided to establish a fund that will make possible a small gift each year to the graduating religious studies major or minor who has most demonstrated the convictions and interest in social ethics that Professor Reeck exemplified.
