VOTE MARCH 9!
Email asups.vp@pugetsound.edu
with any questions

Voting in the ASUPS elections is so important. Each student pays $140 per semester--$280 per year. Do you care about how your money is spent? Additionally, what about the many issues that are brought forward that the ASUPS Executives and the Senators are asked to give their voice to, give their opinion about? Don’t you want those people to speak about the whole student experience? These students that YOU VOTE into office need to be diverse and intelligent and understand the issues of campus! Please vote!

Check out this great resource of black educators that you can follow on social media or just read their books, listen to their podcasts. The list was compiled by the BRAVe (Bystander Revolution Against Violence) student staff coordinator, part of the department of Student Support, to highlight black educators during Black History Month. But the list is so good, we wanted to continue to highlight for the sake of great education. Take a look at the full document by clicking on the image below.

Need to be listened to about a sexual assault, stalking or an intimate partner violence situation? Turn to a Peer Ally and get the support and resources you need. The Peer Allies are a confidential resource for you. They report to the campus Sexual Assault Advocate when someone comes to them for support but no names or identifying information is shared so you are protected. Office hours are all on Zoom and you can see the links and hours on...
Be heard. Be believed.

PEER ALLIES

We are a support network of students that hold weekly "office hours" to provide an opportunity for survivors of sexual violence or harassment who may have felt powerless to talk, be heard, and be believed. Whether you experienced sexual violence yesterday or a year ago.
