

LOGGER LIBS

Inspired by the irresistible hilarity that comes with playing with parts of speech (we're totally riffing on MAD LIBS®), we've created a few Logger Libs for you to enjoy with all your Logger friends!

TO PLAY: Each story has blank spaces where the words are missing. Your job is to fill in those blanks or recruit a friend (or friends) to fill them in for you. The trick is to plug in the words before anyone reads the story.

Want to play by yourself? Fill in the WORD LIST on the back of this page before you read the story. Then, using the words from the list, complete your very own Logger Lib!

EXAMPLE:

Whether you're in the [noun] of 2021, or you graduated [number] years ago, there's one thing all Loggers can agree on: Once a [noun], always a [same noun]!

Whether you're in the [iced coffee] of 2021, or you graduated [86] years ago, there's one thing all Loggers can agree on: Once a [BMX bike], always a [BMX bike]!
