

LOGGER LIBS

Inspired by the irresistible hilarity that comes with playing with parts of speech (we're totally riffing on MAD LIBS®), we've created a few Logger Libs for you to enjoy with all your Logger friends!

TO PLAY: Each story has blank spaces where the words are missing. Your job is to fill in those blanks or recruit a friend (or friends) to fill them in for you. The trick is to plug in the words before anyone reads the story.

Want to play by yourself? Fill in the WORD LIST on the back of this page before you read the story. Then, using the words from the list, complete your very own Logger Lib!

EXAMPLE:

Whether you're in the [noun] of 2021, or you graduated [number] years ago, there's one thing all Loggers can agree on: Once a [noun], always a [same noun]!

Whether you're in the [iced coffee] of 2021, or you graduated [86] years ago, there's one thing all Loggers can agree on: Once a [BMX bike], always a [BMX bike]!

Puget Sound Hatchet Facts

The Puget Sound hatchet was first _____ in 1908 by a group of
VERB – PAST TENSE
_____ who thought it was the perfect symbol for a school whose PLURAL NOUN
sports teams were the _____. Soon the practice of “ JOB TITLE – PLURAL VERB ENDING IN -ING
the Hatchet” became a tradition. Each spring the senior class, which had guarded the _____ all year, handed it over to the juniors in a special ceremony.
NOUN
Eventually the hatchet became an object of intrigue and _____.
NOUN
Students etched their _____ into its head and handle, and classes
PLURAL NOUN
plotted to _____ it from one another. The hatchet would disappear
VERB
for months, even _____, only to resurface at a public event, such as
PERIOD OF TIME – PLURAL
(a/an) _____. In 2008—the 100th anniversary of its discovery—the
SPECIAL EVENT
hatchet returned to campus once more and _____ its rightful place
VERB – PAST TENSE
as a/an _____ of Puget Sound.
NOUN

LOGGER LIBS

Puget Sound Hatchet Facts

WORD LIST

- Verb – past tense _____
- Plural noun _____
- Job title – plural _____
- Verb ending in -ing _____
- Noun _____
- Noun _____
- Plural noun _____
- Verb _____
- Period of time – plural _____
- Special event _____
- Verb – past tense _____
- Noun _____