Professor and director of The Hutchins Center for African and African American Research at Harvard University, Henry Louis Gates Jr. is a literary scholar, filmmaker, journalist, cultural critic, and institution builder.

Professor Gates has created some 30 documentary films and books, as well as scores of articles for popular and academic audiences. Currently he serves as editor-in-chief of TheRoot.com, a daily online magazine, while overseeing the Oxford African American Studies Center, the most comprehensive collection of scholarship available online to focus on the lives and events which have shaped African American and African history and culture. Gates' six-part PBS documentary series, The African Americans: Many Rivers to Cross earned the 2013 Peabody Award and NAACP Image Award, and the second season of his series Finding Your Roots has commenced this week.

The recipient of 53 honorary degrees and numerous prizes, Dr. Gates was a member of the first class awarded "genius grants" by the MacArthur Foundation in 1981, and in 1998 he became the first African-American scholar to be awarded the National Humanities Medal. He was named to TIME's 25 Most Influential Americans list in 1997, to EBONY's Power 150 list in 2009, and to EBONY's Power 100 list in 2010 and 2012.

Gates earned his B.A. degree in English language and literature, summa cum laude, from Yale University in 1973, and his M.A. degree and Ph.D. in English literature from Clare College at University of Cambridge in 1979. He has directed The W.E.B. DuBois Institute for African and African American Research—now The Hutchins Center—since arriving at Harvard in 1991. During his first 15 years on campus, he chaired the Department of Afro-American Studies as it expanded into the Department of African and African American Studies with a full-fledged doctoral program. He is a member of American Academy of Arts and Letters and serves on a wide array of boards, including those of the New York Public Library, NAACP Legal Defense Fund, Aspen Institute, Jazz at Lincoln Center, Whitney Museum of American Art, Library of America, and the Brookings Institute.
